In terms of Quality Management System our company mainly targets the luxury automotive industry, producing prototype and non-prototype parts for racing and road cars to order.

This production can take place either directly on the instructions of the customer themselves, or through their suppliers. Since 2018 Andreoli has entered the world of Aerospace & Defence.

In this context, the organization has chosen to adopt a Quality Management System according to the ISO 9001:2015 and AS/EN 9100:2018 standards, as tools for improving its performance, controlling processes, increasing customer satisfaction and ensuring compliance with the requirements, including those of a legislative nature.

In order to promote development and company growth, the Management has set the following strategic objectives:

- Review all new effectiveness indicators of the main company processes, as identified in this second usage stage of the new management system, as well as work towards achieving the new objectives recorded in the Management Review and Improvement Plan.
- Process of digitizing company paper documents, including through the purchase of new software dedicated to quality system control.
- Increase the number of customers and the types of service that are a fundamental step in the life of the organization.
- Start the process for obtaining the ISO 3834 Certification.
- Continue the action on the national and international market in the construction of aeronautical structures and systems, proposing itself as a company capable of satisfying the ever-increasing "out-door" needs of the major aeronautical manufacturers after obtaining the certification of the quality management system according to the EN 9100: 2018 standard.
- The introduction of the corporate code of ethics, understood as the company's Constitutional Charter, a charter of moral rights and duties that defines the ethical - social responsibility of each participant in the corporate organization.
- Monitor the market to quickly perceive its changes following the world events linked to COVID which will certainly produce various difficulties in all sectors of our working interest.

Constant product and system improvement is, therefore, the primary goal, to be pursued through the company Quality Plan developed based on the following Guidelines:

- The continuous improvement of quality standards regarding the product, services and system requires the involvement and participation of all personnel at all levels. The main motivation must be "CUSTOMER SATISFACTION", also extended within the Company.
- The Managers, the Employees, the Workers must strive to continuously improve the product and the system, through the use of Total Quality methods and techniques.
- The Management is committed to ensure that compliance with the Customer's requirements and continuous improvement are the driving forces behind the company system, involving each manager in creating the conditions that allow their associates to understand and apply the company's quality policy and contribute to continuous improvement.
- The education and training activity must be accurate and continuous and must involve all personnel. Total Quality control starts with training.

- The quality of the suppliers plays an important role in determining the improvement process. Suppliers must be involved and share the continuous improvement process as partners.
- The Management annually defines the priority areas on which to focus based on the knowledge of Customers' needs and benchmarking with top competitors, consistently with the Company's strategic objectives. Each company department must therefore work to achieve the assigned objectives based on these indications.
- The quality objectives are defined annually and shall be subject to periodic review by the Management and formalized in an improvement plan.
- The company quality policy is reviewed annually to ensure it meets the Customer's expectations and its suitability, also in order to adjust the objectives, should the Customers' needs have changed over time.
- Each manager must assume the leadership of the Quality processes and coordinate them according to the Company as a whole.
- The Topics related to the review of the quality policy must be included in the periodic review of the system by the Management

Responsibility

The Management of Andreoli &C is responsible for disseminating and supporting this Quality Policy, using the most appropriate resources and means, by clarifying and assigning specific responsibilities to each employee for its implementation.
